WOMEN OF THE STATE COMMISSION ASSURE SUCCESS OF TENNESSEE'S EXHIBIT AT THE WORLD'S FAIR.

Leading women of Tennessee are taking an active part in the State's participation in the World's Fair. In the large cities they have given important aid to the Tennessee Commission. They appear to take pride in seeing to it that their State is adequately represented.

When the movement to take part in the Exposition was first set on foot in Tennessee women's clubs and society women throughout the State took it up and, by resolutions and otherwise, urged the importance of a substantial appropriation by the Legislature.

Largely through their influence and efforts the legislators were induced to take this view of the matter, and when the World's Fair representatives entered the State to present the Exposition's cause they were enthusiastically received and success attended their mission.

Though up to that time there was no precedent for it, he appointed three women members of the commission.

There were so many prominent women who had taken part in the World's Fair work that Governor Frazier found considerable difficulty in making his nominations. Influence was also brought to bear by various women's societies and clubs in different parts of the State.

After days of deliberation and consultation he appointed Mrs. J. P. Smart of Chattanooga, Mrs. Mary C. Dorris of Nashville and Mrs. A. S. Buchanan of Memphis. The announcement of the appointments was met with universal approval.

The part taken in the work of the commission by the three ladies' members has borne out the wisdom of Governor Frazier's choice. From the start they made it understood that they were not figureheads, but active, energetic factors of the commission.

Mrs. A. S. Buchanan is a leader in the social and intellectual life and philanthropic and patriotic movements in Memphis. Her father, the late Colonel Looney, was one of Tennessee's most distinguished citizens.

By training Mrs. Buchanan is admirably fitted for the public work which her appointment on the commission places upon her. She has served two terms as president of the Nineteenth Century Club and regent of the Hermitage Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution.

As a member of the women's department of the Tennessee Centennial, Mrs. Buchanan worked so untriflingly and intelligently that she was regarded as the ablest woman associated with the enterprise.

Mrs. Mary C. Dorris represents Middle Tennessee on the commission, her home being Nashville. In that city she has been identified with movements for the advancement of education, music and culture. She has a strong personality, so that her friends have come to look upon anything which she undertakes as an assured success.

Although having many irons in the fire, Mrs. Dorris will devote much of her time to the work of the commission. She has already organized the work in Nashville, and is undertaking to devise plans for enabling certain societies and organizations to visit the World's Fair.

Mrs. Dorris is a great-granddaughter of Mrs. Andrew Jackson. Her father was a surgeon in the Confederate Army, and a graduate of the University of Nashville. Her most conspicuous work has been as secretary of the Ladies' Hermitage Association, which office she has held since the organization, fifteen years ago.

MRS. MARY C. DORRIS.

MRS. A. S. BUCHANAN.

MRS. JAMES P. SMART.

TENNESSEE LADIES WHO HAVE BEEN APPOINTED MEMBERS OF THE COMMISSION FROM THAT STATE AT THE ST. LOUIS WORLD'S FAIR.

There is a large quantity of young cotton developing nicely, that will mature under the conditions suggested and add largely to the crop that is in sight. There is not much prospect of a large top-crop yield. Pickers are scarce, even at the price of 80 to 70 cents per hundred pounds. It is noticeable that most persons who have been persistent in vowing the boll weevil and other alarms are trying to find cotton pickers, notwithstanding their declarations that "we're ruined," etc. There is some evidence of local boll-weevil work at Orphan's Home and near Seagoville, but in the county as a whole the fields are free from the pest. The indications are that Dallas County will market more than 80,000 bales.
